Foreword

Human Rights Foundation celebrated 10 years of the programme «Empowering Women and Youth» in 2018, remembering, when the first rural activities started in Pyraytin city, Poltava region in 2007.

Today HRF looks very different, likewise Ukraine, as our response towards local challenges became stronger and imbued with digital powers.

Following our mission, we still focus our attention on the most vulnerable people- women from uncontrolled territories in the East, people with disabilities and internally displaced population.

We always put women and girls in the middle of our project, as we simply can not eliminate conflicts unless all people have equal rights and opportunities.

We empower women to speak, speak eloquently and loud. The ambition was galvanized by the project «Women Voices Count 2018» to advocate IDP women rights by active digital blogging, where we managed encompassing efforts of over 50000 Ukrainian women.

We reached sort of flabbergasting effect when 60% of all court cases had been resolved at pre-trial phase due to active blogging advocacy activities.

Blog helps...

Blog can save lives...

However, behind blogs there are people who are eager to live in a better world. HRF found out that the impact and factual change can be gained by people with the same values and common needs, under the condition, that their VOICES COUNT.

We are proud and thankful to all of You, as supporters, friends and allies.

While carrying out four Inter-regional training sessions and 14 regional seminars, HRF staff/and local project representatives have managed engaging women from LNR/DNR side. We calculated over 45 women who managed traveling to project events and visited us. Majority of them tried not to highlight their current place of residence, however in the course of the training it was not possible to conceal this info. In addition to that, we registered that women from «opposite side», regardless physical risk are raising awareness among other people in LNR/DNR debunking myths about Ukraine and Ukrainian people. We registered over 183 weekly updated blogs. Majority of blogs were re-posted in our official Facebook group. Local activists had a chance to liaise IDP topics with local authorities and requested official clarifications.

The factors, which fuelled the success, were the following:

- Engagement of prominent and professional/active local partner NGOs;
